With the ever-growing complexities of data gathering and reporting, information becomes less effective, when data is scattered in multiple locations. By organizing this data in one central location, it empowers the ability to report quickly and accurately. With the Oracle Database, and its versatile components, reporting becomes simple, quick, and most importantly – accurate. Oracle Application Express (APEX) (formerly HTML DB) is the latest web application development tool for the Oracle Database. APEX exemplifies the ability to simplify this, with complete ease and usability.

Using a simple web browser, APEX allows you to develop professional applications with fast, consolidated, and precise results. With minimal programming experience, APEX combines the flexible qualities of an enterprise database, security, and ease of use for a brilliant application for the web. No client software is required for APEX, due to the inclusion of three (3) primary tools: Application Builder, SQL Workshop, and Utilities. Our trained consultants quickly and professionally assist and install everything needed, for your applications to be up and running effectively.

The trained professionals at Mythics Professional Services (MPS), have over 30 years of experience, and knowledge of the Oracle product suite. Adding to the expanding list of applications, MPS delivers a solution for web-based data reporting, to enable your organization and its need for professional reports. MPS offers unrivaled Oracle experience, with dedicated longevity and continuity of service. Our organization is structured around the simple principle that in today's information based world, there is no time to spend gathering incomplete data or learning the latest intricacies of your database. Utilizing the certified experience of Oracle products, the MPS consultants can strategically analyze, and implement an optimized reporting system for your organization, while your time is appropriately distributed on other necessities. Once deployed, our team enables your data teams to optimize its latest applications by educating your team thoroughly.

APEX is a dynamic resource, which is designed to return results quickly in opportunistic and departmental applications. These applications are provided on the web with superior performance and come integrated with your Oracle Database. Apex also incorporates an extensive charting engine, which allows your SQL queries to be generated in graphical representations, providing a more effective message.

MPS Consultants and engineers will leverage their real time experience in fielding APEX deployment on behalf of your organization. Call your MPS representative today to find out more about how MPS can assist you.

MPS consultants will help you extract maximum value from Oracle solutions, in the following areas:

- Application Migrations
- User Management
- Phased and Scalable Implementation Planning
- Lowered Total Cost of Ownership
- Defined and Prioritized Information Needs
- Test, Roll-Out, and Training Management
